Report
on Symposium on “Data for Sustainable Development”

The above stated Symposium was organized by the School of Science on 29th June 2022 at U.P. Rajarshi Tandon Open University Allahabad.

The National Statistics Day is celebrated every year on 29 June, which is the birth anniversary of Late Professor P C Mahalanobis. The day is celebrated to acknowledge contributions of Prof Mahalanobis to the field of Statistics and National Statistics System. The objective is to popularize and spread awareness among the common people about the importance of Statistics in daily life.

It also emphasizes on the importance of statistics in formulation of national policies. Each year a theme emphasizing some issue of national importance is decided for National Statistics day. The theme for this year's National Statistics Day is Data for Sustainable Development.

Professor Prasanta Chandra Mahalanobis was founder of Indian Statistical Institute. His key contributions in research include Mahalanobis distance, which is used in Modern data mining techniques also for classification purpose. His contributions to the design of large-scale sample surveys, pilot surveys formed the basis of different national sample survey rounds. He also contributed in the field of anthropometry in India. He was one of the members of second Planning Commission of India. He was popularly known as the "Father of Indian Statistics". He was honoured with Padma Vibhushan for his contribution to science and services to the country.

The present crisis of pandemic highlighted the importance of statistics in better planning for pandemic control, prediction, management of requirements such as hospital beds, oxygen, etc. Not just the experts, the statistical figures and graphs appearing in daily newspapers related to COVID have drawn the attention of common readers also. Another area, which has to play crucial role in such situations and has drawn attention, is the role of open and online education system. The online education has opened opportunities for people living in remote areas to get access to experts of different fields from various national and international institutes/universities, which was a dream for them in past.

With the fast-growing computational facilities and the availability of high frequency multi-dimensional data; the role of every statistician is becoming more challenging. The high frequency data usually violate the assumption of independence and traditional statistical tools fail. The storage of high dimensional big data and continuously updating the data is not an issue but online fast decisions require computationally efficiency programs. These challenges led to new trends in Statistics such as development of data mining tools, application of machine learning and artificial intelligence, exploratory data analysis to explore data etc. The present-day statisticians require getting expertise not only in theoretical aspects of these areas but also in software tools for implementing these techniques.

The need of the hour is to produce good quality statistics in terms of reliability, accuracy, timeliness, etc. For addressing more real-life issues, conversation between users and producers of data is essential to meet users' requirement. In practice, several control factors may be interacting to produce the outcome. It is crucial to understand entire system of interconnected processes for drawing better inferences and forecasts. Keeping all such issues in view, a new field of data science has emerged which uses scientific methods, processes, and systems to extract knowledge from data. Of course, Statistics forms the foundation of data sciences.

Statistics is going to play crucial role in modern society. It allows understanding a subject much more deeply by learning from data.

In nutshell, "better data, better techniques lead to better lives".
